Pot eggs will give pigeons the bird

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

UNHATCHED pigeon eggs are being replaced with fake porcelain ones in West Bletchley as a form of pest control.

The method, being used on top of high rise flat block Mellish Court, acts as a contraceptive to the birds – they will not lay more eggs until the ones in their nests have hatched.

Pigeons have posed serious problems at Mellish Court for years.

It is the latest in a string of attempts to curb the problem.

Ever since phone masts were installed in the early 90s, residents have been plagued by birds, bird droppings and flies. The building used to have a self-cleaning roof but the phone mast cables prevent the droppings from being cleaned off in the rain.

Now Vodaphone, which operates a mast from the top of the towerblock, has agreed to pay for contractors to install nesting boxes.

They will regularly swap eggs laid by the pigeons with false ones.

It is estimated that the problem will be resolved in three years – the average lifespan of a pigeon.

Mellish Court resident and anti-pigeon campaigner Pete Lindopa said: "Living here it has been an ongoing battle. I think this is a great idea, if it works. It's also humane, unlike poisoning them. Most residents have now got netting over their balconies but there were issues with people who let the birds on their balconies. When it rained the droppings would drip onto the balcony below."

The council has previously tried to discourage the birds with plastic and real hawks.

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said: "We have received many complaints about the pigeons, or more specifically their droppings, over the years, and we have tried various different methods to combat the problem.

"We approached Vodafone andthey offered to install four, three-berth nesting boxes and place fake eggs inside them."

Shoppers were treated to a bit of style at Midsummer Place with a catwalk show as part of its fashion week. For more pictures see page 22

MK Theatre is set to have a 'baby'

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Theatre is set to expand, with a second mini theatre.

Plans are in the pipeline for the second theatre to be built, to provide community-based shows.

A feasibility study is currently being carried out into the possibility.

Although still in the very early stages, it is thought the second theatre could be used for more intimate performances, community events and stand-up comedy.

It is also envisaged that the extension of the theatre could be used for theatre production work and by budding local artists.

Milton Keynes Theatre and Gallery Company (MKTGC) - the charity responsible for monitoring the performance of Milton Keynes Theatre and Milton Keynes Gallery, has teamed up with Milton Keynes Council and Milton Keynes Partnership for the 'vision'.

MKTGC chairman Roy Nevitt said: "Through its joint vision for the Theatre and the Gallery, MKTGC is committed to extending and developing its unique facilities for the performing and contemporary arts in Milton Keynes.

"We are currently working alongside the council and Milton Keynes Partnership to plan an even more exciting cultural future for our city."

MKTGC is working towards the launch of a public prospectus in early 2008 to talk with its stakeholders and the public.

The main theatre, which opened in 1999, seats up to 1,400.

We won't hear a word against him

A STUDENT from Stantonbury Campus has beaten stiff competition to become a Scrabble champion.

Austin Shin, 17, proved his word power on Sunday as he was crowned the National Schools Scrabble Champion.

He won £1,000 for his school and £500 for himself, along with a trophy.

Eight finalists aged 14 to 17-years-old met in London for the play-off following two previous rounds of play.

His tallies on the day outshone even those in the simultaneous National Scrabble Championship, as he racked up 613 points in one match.

That was 76 points higher than anything scored in the adult event.

Shin's favourite word on the day was capoeira, meaning a dance originating in Brazil. Along with a trophy, Shin scooped £1000 for his school and £500 for himself.

Councillor couple under scrutiny

A HUSBAND and wife who sit on Campbell Park Parish Council are both being investigated by the Standards Board.

Isabella Fraser, who is also a Milton Keynes councillor, and her husband Tom stand accused of failing to treat others with respect.

The Standards Board is a national body that promotes the ethical behaviour of councillors. It receives and investigates allegations that members have breached the councillor's Code of Conduct.

A spokesman for the Standards Board said: "We can confirm that there is an investigation ongoing into Tom and Isabella Fraser.

"The decision for the allegations to be investigated by the Standards Board was made on the 18 May 2007.

"The parts of the Code of Conduct the potential breach of which gave rise to the complaints being referred for investigation is Paragraph 2(b): which states that a member must to treat others with respect and Paragraph 4: which states that a member must not bring his office or authority into disrepute."

Yesterday Cllr Isabella Fraser declined to comment on the investigation.

Complaints were also made to the Standards Board about parish councillors Danny Conway and Martin Petchey by a member of the same authority. The allegations were that they had failed to treat others with respect.

MKNEWS understands that the allegations follow a bust-up that has split the parish council.

Cllr Conway was reported to the Standards Board in February 2007, but it referred the case to Milton Keynes Council's Monitoring Officer.

The investigation is ongoing.

The Standards Board decided not to investigate the complaint that was made against Martin Petchey in June 2007 due to insufficient information.

130 offenders on city's sex register

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

THERE are 130 registered sex offenders living in Milton Keynes.

Milton Keynes which has a population of 224,800 has more sex offenders per head of population than all the other areas in the Thames Valley Police region.

But the Thames Valley area, which has 982 registered sex offenders overall, has the fifth lowest number of registered sex offenders per 100,000 people in England and Wales.

It equates to 46 per 100,000 people in Oxfordshire, Buckinghamshire and Berkshire. The national average is 57.45.

The Multi-Agency Public Protection Agreement (MAPPA) report uses Thames Valley Police, Thames Valley Probation and the Prison Service to assess and manage risk posed by offenders in the community.

MAPPA is the term to describe the arrangements set up locally to assess and manage offenders who pose a risk of serious harm.

The work is done along with other agencies, including Primary Care Trusts, the Youth Offending Service, mental health, local authority housing and social services.

Det Ch Insp Tim Price, Public Protection Officer, said: "The annual report demonstrates the success of MAPPA locally.

"By successfully identifying offenders, sharing information with other key agencies and working closely together on public protection plans, dangerous offenders are well monitored and risks to the public are minimised.

"The very fact that we can illustrate these figures in this report tells you that we know where these offenders are and we are working to protect you from them."

Paul Gillbard, director of offender management for Thames Valley Probation, said: "In the Thames Valley, we feel confident that we have a workable system which should provide the local community with confidence that sex offenders and potentially dangerous persons are being managed properly and safely.

"The fact is, however, that such persons always have been and will continue to be released into the community.

"Recent changes in the law and working practices of all the agencies involved in MAPPA now mean that such people are monitored far more closely than in the past."

Oxfordshire has 323 sex offenders out of a population of 631,900, Berkshire West 227 out of a population of 445,400, Berkshire East has 152 out of a population of 370,500 and Buckinghamshire has 150 sex offenders out of a population of 487,300.

The number of other offenders, including those convicted of violent offences, covered by Multi-Agency Public Protection Panels in the Thames Valley totalled 980 in the year 2006/2007.

Bletchley Park in code crack challenge

BLETCHLEY Park is issuing a world-wide code-cracking challenge.

Yesterday army members collected the last remaining Second World War Lorenz SZ42 machine to take to the Heinz Nixdorf Computer Museum in Paderborn, Germany.

From there a series of secret messages enciphered on the machine will be transmitted by radio, exactly as they were in 1945. It will then be up to the world to work out what the messages are.

The challenge is to crack the code before the recently rebuilt Colossus decoding machine at Bletchley Park does.

The event celebrates the completion of the Colossus rebuild.

During the Second World War, German messages in code were regularly read by the British codebreakers at Bletchley Parkusing the massive electronic computing machine known as Colossus.

It was the first working computer with around ten in use at the end of the war. They were so secret their existence was kept from the public for 30 years and only two survived.

The army will bring the Lorenze machine back to Milton Keynes when the challenge is complete.

£3m damages for brain-damaged girl

A MILTON Keynes girl left brain-damaged due to catastrophic birth injuries at Northampton General Hospital has received a £3.1m compensation pay-out in London's High Court.

Aimee Kilby, now ten, is afflicted by severe cerebral palsy which has left her incapable of movement and with severe visual problems due to oxygen starvation in the latter stages of her delivery at the hospital in August 1997.

Mr Justice Jack approved a damages pay-out worth £3.1m in her favour against the Northampton General Hospital NHS Trust

Aimee had sued the NHS Trust for alleged clinical negligence through her mother, Karen Kilby, of High View, Deanshanger, Milton Keynes.

The family was not in court as the judge gave his approval for a settlement yesterday, which takes the form of a £1.2 lump sum, plus "periodical payments" designed to meet Aimee's future care costs and will last for as long as she lives.

Her QC, Margaret Bowron, said the family are currently on holiday in France which Aimee "loves".

She added: "The warm weather does her an immense amount of good".

The judge said he hoped the family were enjoying themselves, wishing them well for the future.

Aimee's brain-damage was caused by a delay in securing her delivery, her lawyers claimed, leaving her with "very severe cerebral palsy" and an inability to fend for herself.

Wear a 'no more war poppy' on November 11

SIR – On Remembrance Sunday wear a white poppy for Peace without violence.

The white poppy is a symbol of grief for all people of all nationalities, armed forces and civilians alike, who are victims of war.

It is a symbol worn by people who want 'no more war'. War is a crime against humanity.

From economic reliance on arms sales (Britain is the world's second largest arms exporter) to maintaining manifestly useless nuclear weapons, Britain contributes significantly to international instability.

Why do we accept the hypocrisy of praying for peace while preparing for war? Iraq, Afghanistan – who is next? When will we ever learn?

H Hanson
Cowper Close, Newport Pagnell

Parish referendum

SIR – Gordon Brown ignores us over the Not-The-EU-Constitution Treaty but, thanks to the Local Government Act 1972, people everywhere can tell him: 'We want a referendum'.

Residents in Loughton Parish (Loughton and Great Holm) now have their chance to be 'The Mouse that Roared'.

This Monday, October 29, there is going to be a parish poll on the question: 'Do you want a referendum on the current E U Constitutional treaty? Yes/No'.

Initiated at a special meeting, the poll is run and organised by the electoral team at Milton Keynes Council with their usual efficiency.

Residents can vote, Yes or No, at the polling stations at Great Holm Community Centre or Loughton Memorial Hall, between 4 pm and 9 pm.

These parish polls have attracted interest from the media both in this country and Europe.

No wonder, apart from Ireland, which had to hold a referendum, this is likely to be the only chance anyone in the EU gets to make their voice heard.

Cllr Donald Hoyle
Petworth, Great Holm

Investment homes

SIR – I happened to be in the sales office of a recent development waiting for the sales lady to finish a telephone conversation before showing me around.

The conversation finished and she said: 'I must contact a colleague as the caller wanted to buy twelve properties off another site'.

I agree with Sylvia Kent, it seems to me at this rate houses and flats at affordable prices are being built for greedy landlords for investment and not as intended – for the genuine house buyer of this country.

Incentives needed to harness wind energy

SIR – Full credit for the excellent balanced article by Laura Hannam on wind turbines 'Brees puts the wind up Blot and Blew' and to MK NEWS for attention to important local issues

I first thought it was a 'wind-up' as it appears to be a competition to find the best acronym, but it makes the story memorable.

I am in favour of turbines. Even if global warming is exaggerated by many and the few who blame a rare peak in sun spot activity are correct, we still need to conserve the precious resources we are wasting at an alarming rate.

In Germany if you have your own little turbine, any surplus which flows back into the grid is credited at a premium rate, in the UK you get zero.

A complex formal application to address the issue must be accompanied by a massive non-returnable fee and other expenses.

Still, our ex-chancellor has promised to regulate the sale of low efficiency filament light bulbs, –in about five years.

We need sensible planning that can be clearly justified and big incentives like no housing within a 1,000 metre radius of a wind farm and housing within a 3,000 metre radius to receive a discount of 30 per cent on energy bills.

Perhaps this type of development would then be more popular.

Less time and valuable resources would be wasted in objections and appeals when the eventual outcome may be inevitable – we will run out of fossil fuel.

Some blighted areas could get a real popularity boost by having a couple of windmills and the large energy subsidy.

I was about to suggest MK NEWS should continue to devote more space each week to topics of particular local concern like planning, transport, recycling and energy; but no need – I see this week one whole page devoted to readers' sensible responses to the listing of the least desirable estates and another half page of MK letters for other readers' views.

Uniform problems

SIR – I am very concerned about all this talk of MK Hospital getting infections.

The hospital is saying that it is making sure that the people who work at the hospital wash their hands, etc.

However, don't hospital bosses realise that nurses and the cleaners who work in the wards, wear their clothes outside when they sit on buses and trains, etc?

There is a risk of getting germs onto their clothes and then taking them back into the hospital.

They should be told not to wear their uniforms outside the hospital.

Mrs J McKenyie
Wellingford, Bradville

Let's celebrate visit

SIR – I think that it is great news that the Queen is coming to Milton Keynes.

This is a real opportunity for the people of this city, sorry town, to get together and celebrate all of the good things about Milton Keynes.

Many people are critical of MK saying it is soulless and that there are no communities.

We all know this to be a load of nonsense but rarely do we get a chance to show ourselves off in a positive light on a national level.

There are so many things to be positive about in MK, the MK Dons stadium, the shopping centre, the parkland the whole general 'can do' attitude.

The eyes of the country are bound to be on the visit and so we must make sure that we show our true colours.

I am calling on as many people as possible to get out and celebrate the Queen's visit and most importantly celebrate that we are proud to be from Milton Keynes.

Mr J Walker
Middleton

Give 'em a rocket!

SIR – As Bonfire Night approaches I hope that police will be out in force stopping young tearaways wreaking havoc with fireworks as per usual.

Already the sound of fireworks can be heard every night and November 5 is still two weeks away.

The police are keen to tell us how important the police community officers are and how they are helping the community.

Well let's hope that these officers can get out and about in the comuntiy now to spot the youngsters who are messing around with fireworks and bring them to task

Cans and foil can grow African trees

RECYCLING officers in Milton Keynes are calling on everyone in the city to collect aluminium cans and foil to help make a difference to African communities struggling to make ends meet.

The Trees for Africa campaign, run by aluminium recycling trade body Alupro, is taking advantage of the tonnes of aluminium cans and foil collected by Milton Keynes Council to buy fruit trees for the African state of Malawi.

For every tonne recycled by the council a fruit tree will be purchased to establish a special nursery on the banks of Lake Malawi.

The nursery will provide improved fruit trees such as mango, orange, lemon and avocado, through grafting and budding on to wild rootstock under controlled greenhouse conditions.

These trees can be sold both to individuals and to small semi-commercial growers to help them establish fruit growing businesses so they can become self supporting.

Last year Milton Keynes Council collected 71 tonnes of aluminium that helped contribute to the national campaign which resulted in 100,000 trees being planted in the UK and in Burkina Faso, West Africa.

Paul Mocroft, council waste reduction officer, said: "Not only can recycling benefit the environment, but it can make a difference to some people where our efforts to recycle can literally make the difference between life and death."

The current campaign, with the help of UK recyclers, aims to establish more than 85,000 fruit trees over the first two-year period, as well as providing 15 jobs, and training programmes for around 25 volunteers at each of the 75 village nurseries.

Watch out: Chief Inspector Andy Standen prepare to take to the sky with Lewis White in his microlight

Sky high spies

IT'S chocks away for a new crime initiative.

As revealed by MK NEWS last month microlights are the police service's latest weapon against crime this autumn.

Pilots from the charity Sky Watch are being employed as part of the latest phase of the force's Operation Rebound.

The Sky Watch Auxiliary Air Service is the largest voluntary air observation and search service in Europe.

It was formed in 2001 to utilise the observational powers of private aircraft, which can fly lower than airline traffic.

Now pilots will help police officers and council wardens to carry out specific patrols, targeting areas where there is a problem.

Those who spot any suspicious activity will radio the 'Watch office' at Milton Keynes Police Station so that ground patrols can be sent to investigate.

As bonfire night approaches, pilots on Operation Rebound will seek out anyone who is illegally gathering wood on council property.

Two seater microlights can be airborne for up to four hours and can travel at speeds of 60mph.

MK NEWS reporter Laura Hannam had the chance to go up in one with Lewis White, chief pilot of the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire unit of Sky Watch at the official launch yesterday.

"It was an amazing experience, you can see the whole landscape stretched out around you like a model village and there is nothing to block your view as in a commercial jet," she said.

Mr White, 47, is a former sergeant at Milton Keynes Police and has been flying over the city in his microlight for three years.

He flies from an airstrip near Buckingham and is part of a team of eight pilots.

Chief Inspector Andy Standen said: "Halloween and bonfire night its our busiest time of the year for reports of anti-social behaviour.

"We became aware of what these guys do during the summer and they have helped us out already with a couple of jobs and its tying that in to what we are doing now. You can pick out quite a lot of detail from the air and they may spot things that we would not see from the ground."

■ Pilots interested in getting involved can call Helen Sharratt, watch co-ordinator, at Thames Valley Police on 01908 686169.

CCTV cameras caught racist graffiti artist in underpass

A MAN who daubed racist graffiti on a city underpass has escaped a jail sentence.

Lee Johnstone, 26, of Hatton, Tinkers Bridge, pleaded guilty at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on Friday September 28, admitting he damaged a wall and bus shelter belonging to Milton Keynes Council.

Police officers installed a CCTV camera to monitor the underpass between Netherfield and Tinkers Bridge after local residents reported repeated incidents of vandalism.

On November 18 last year the camera captured Johnstone writing on the wall and an officer found the slogans 'NF Vote British', which refers to the National Front, and 'C-18', short for Combat-18, part of a British Neo-Nazi organisation.

A swastika had also been drawn on the wall.

Johnstone was identified by his distinctive green parka jacket and police found similar slogans when they awent to his home to arrest him.

When questioned by the police Johnstone admitted being racist and said he disliked anybody who wasn't white.

He was sentenced to a 12 month community order and a total £250 fine at the magistrates court on Friday (October 19).

The fine includes £50 compensation to Milton Keynes Council for cleaning up the damage.

He will also have to report to a probation supervisor for 12 months.

Johnstone had initially denied that the person on the CCTV footage was him.

His solicitor told the court that his client suffers from mental illnesses including schizophrenia and agoraphobia.

It's welcome to Bletchley AND Fenny Stratford

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

New road signs will be erected in front of the offending original ones

PEOPLE power has prevailed following a row over town signs.

Bletchley and Fenny Stratford Town Council has agreed to erect 'Welcome to Fenny Stratford' signs up on the edge of the town.

Fenny residents had been campaigning to replace signs saying 'Welcome to Bletchley - Home of the Codebreakers', which were put up on Simpson Road and Watling Street as you drive into Fenny Stratford.

The original signs had upset the community, which felt that it was being wiped off the map.

Residents and business owners made their feelings clear and on October 16 town councillors decided that they would put new signs up.

However they refused to remove the original ones.

Now the new signs, costing over £4,000, will be erected metres in front of the other ones.

The signs were erected as part of a £30,000 joint project between Bletchley and Fenny Stratford Town Council (BFSTC) and West Bletchley Parish Council.

Fenny resident Jon Gregory, who demanded that the signs were taken down, said: "They were misleading at best and an insult to the history of Fenny Stratford at worst.

"I don't want to appear ungracious in victory but the way the local authority has handled this has been pretty poor to say the least.

"I simply told the council that their job was to serve the community they represent and it was the wish of the community that Fenny Stratford be recognised with its own signs.

"Initially, they seemed to object to this but I'm glad to say common sense has prevailed.

"It is not ideal that the Bletchley signs will remain but I guess councillors just don't like to admit when they're wrong".

The work is to be carried out before Christmas.

While said that Fenny had its own identity, West Bletchley Parish Council said it was 'struggling to see what the problem is'.

BFSTC confirmed the move this week.

Fan-tastic: Bob Clements with some of his collection

Star Wars fanatic puts light sabre up for sale

A STAR Wars fanatic is selling Luke Skywalker's light sabre and it is yours for just £30,000.

Yet Bob Clements, 60, a web designer whose company Generic is based at Caldecotte Business Park, says he makes no money at all from the site SpecialistAuctions.com.

As well as the original Star Wars prop which featured in a deleted scene of The Return of the Jedi, Bob's site is also selling the eponymous golden gun from the Bond movie, and a bronze cast of Jack Nicholson's face from Pinewood Studios.

He set up SpecialistAuctions.com, which allows visitors to bid for unusual items costing between £1 and £50,000, as a hobby in 2005 with two friends.

Some of the items for sale are from his personal collection, and many of them are as valuable for their stories.

"You hold these items and just wonder about the history of them. It is absolutely fascinating," said Bob, who lives in Leighton Buzzard.

"I do not mind selling items that I own because they are going to other collectors who I know are going to cherish them."

Bob's site also guards against fakes, with a quarter of the profits paying for specialist moderators to verify items' authenticity.

"We are usually looking at photos to see if items are genuine so we can only be 99.99 per cent sure, he said.

"The light saber is certainly genuine. It is made by Norank Eng Co Ltd, the resident studio engineers at Elstree Film Studios."

Welcome! Gerry Baker, Margaret Baker, Walter Lawrie, Marion Wale, Liz Adams and Parkinson's nurse campaigner Bill McCloskey present the Welcome Book to Jane Salmon, centre

Parkinson nurse is 'raring to go'

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

THE new Parkinson's Disease nurse was handed a book of welcome messages on Monday.

Jane Salmon's arrival follows an 18-month campaign to get a dedicated nurse.

Parkinson's sufferer Bill McCloskey, who led the campaign, started the Welcome Book before Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust had agreed to fund a nurse.

He said: "I still can't believe it's actually happening. I am an expert on disasters, I have a long history of failures. But I have been amazed at the number of people who've been so helpful."

The trust agreed to fund the nurse after badgering from Bill, the Parkinson's Disease Society and MK NEWS.

Jane Salmon, who has been appointed in the specialist role, will improve Bill's standard of life and that of Parkinson's sufferers across the city.

She said: "I wasn't aware of the extent of the campaign, but I feel very honoured.

"I am raring to go, I have had an intensive induction and I am now seeing patients. They are coming in thick and fast."

Patients are referred to Jane via their GP or consultant and she can can support them at a clinic or at home.

There are almost 230 messages in the book such as 'You are the person who so many have been waiting for'.

Bill McClosey almost single-handedly raised a petition of 1,800 signatures in support of a nurse which was presented to the trust on last year.

The public raised £7,000 to help fund the nurse.

Parkinson's Disease is a progressive neurological condition affecting movements such as walking, talking and writing.

Jane will work with patients to help manage complex drug regimes, improve access to medical advice, save costs and time in respect of consultants and GPs and co-ordinate with other services such as hospital admissions.

The Parkinson's Disease Society will pay Jane's wages for the first two years and the PCT will provide funding of £43,500 and £45,000 in years three and four, before carrying out a review of the service.

Barbara Kennedy, chief executive of the trust, said: "We must take account of the healthcare needs of everyone in Milton Keynes and we welcome Jane's appointment to our team of clinical specialists. I am delighted that we have entered into partnership with the Parkinson's Disease Society. It is a huge step forward in strengthening links with the voluntary sector."

Cops light fuse under 'yellow card' scheme

YELLOW cards will be handed to yobs across the city during Halloween and Guy Fawkes Night to fight anti-social behaviour.

The scheme, in which youngsters are given red and yellow referee-style cards, is being rolled out across Milton Keynes during the festivities and the half-term holidays.

It was introduced in West Bletchley in August after residents reported being terrified of large groups of teenagers congregating in Barleyhurst Park.

More than 100 youngsters were handed the cards, which tell them that they have been warned and if they re-offend action will be taken against them.

Anyone given a red card will have their names recorded on the police computer system.

Their parents will also be informed in writing.

The scheme is part of Thames Valley Police Operation Rebound, a campaign to tackle anti-social behaviour and vandalism among young people.

Chief Insp Andy Standen, said: "The whole campaign is designed to inform people that where their behaviour is found to be unacceptable both the police and our partners will take further action.

"It is not about trying to issue everyone with an ASBO.

"It is aimed at both adults and young people – where necessary trying to make parents aware of the actions of their children and support their individual needs to address their behaviour."

Mobile stolen as girl talked

A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD girl's phone was stolen as she walked in the city centre.

The victim was talking on her phone as she walked under an underpass at around 6pm on Monday (October 15).

The underpass runs under Avebury Avenue leading from the temporary car park near the Point towards the Xscape building.

A youth approached her from behind and pushed her before stealing her Sony Ericsson K810l mobile phone.

He is white, around 5ft 8ins, 15-16-years-old with short dark spiky hair and was wearing a grey tracksuit.

DC Iain O'Kane said: "This was a cowardly and despicable robbery on a young girl."

Witnesses can call police on 0845 8 505 505.

David Stringer, head of wardrobe for MK Theatre's production of The Producers

Show-stopping numbers behind the scenes at The Producers

232 costume changes

145 wigs

Cast of 27

Orchestra of 14

22 technicians

400 outfits

132 pairs of shoes

143 positional tape marks on stage

The curtain has been lifted on Mel Brooks' award-winning musical The Producers at Milton Keynes Theatre. MK News reporter LAURA HANNAM went back stage to see what work goes into a big all-singing all-dancing production

AS you sit back and enjoy the bright lights and dazzling costumes of The Producers spare a thought for all the staff backstage sewing each individual jewel and calling every cue.

The work that goes into a show of this scale is staggering. Just as a pointer, 232 costume changes occur during each performance and 542 cues are called for lighting, scenery, set changes and cast entrances and exits.

The show even has five staff members dedicated to just look after its 145 wigs!

It is currently one of the largest touring productions in the UK with a cast of 27, orchestra of 14 and 22 technicians who bring the show to life eight times a week.

To find out more about what its like to work backstage on tour with The Producers I first spoke to David Stringer, head of wardrobe.

The wardrobe department have a never-ending job of maintaining the 400 outfits and 132 pairs of shoes used during the production and making sure costume changes run smoothly.

It is fiddly and time-consuming work steam cleaning and repairing the four-year-old Canadian costumes, which were designed by famous Broadway designer William Ivey Long and used on the West End.

The most expensive outfit they care for is the glittering Chrysler dress worth £10,000, which director Roger DeBris, played by Russ Abbot, first enters wearing.

The wardrobe team spend at least an hour repairing and cleaning this one dress before every performance for it to be worn for a matter of minutes.

Mr Stringer explained: "That dress requires a lot of maintenance because it's covered in small glass beads and it's a long dress so sometimes they get trod on and, the way it has been beaded, if one bead gets caught then the whole string comes off."

The team consists of five full-time staff and 11 local people who must be trained for each production. They also spend hours each week sticking 50 Swarovski crystals to each of the showgirl's tights by hand.

Costumes, wigs, props and backdrops behind the scenes at MK Theatre shows including Miss Saigon, Phantom of the Opera and The Lion King, said The Producers is one of the hardest to take on tour because of the amount of costumes.

"Its not just the things you see on the stage its all the understudies costumes," he said.

"We have three male understudies who cover all the male ensemble parts so they have to have 38 different outfits just so they can go into their parts if they need to and, we have to store them somewhere and look after them.

"Touring is completely different to working on the West End because each venue is like a minefield as you don't know where things are going to go and it is never the same twice," he added.

"I remember in Woking, which is a smaller venue with very tight wing space, a girl running for her entrance caught her over skirt on a piece of furniture and because its quite old and fragile and only thin material it just ripped right up.

"I had to come in the next day and piece it back together."

The five wig mistresses spend hours cleaning and styling the show's collection and taking care of the 116 wig changes during the show.

"Two or three hours before the show the wigs have to be set in rollers and dressed out into the appropriate style," said wig mistress Helen Burgess.

"They are also washed once or twice at each venue with real shampoo and conditioner and dried in our hot boxes for two or three hours."

And last but not least meet the man that keeps the whole show together, from lights, sound, costume, set and cues - technical stage manager James Mulholland.

Coo: One of the stars

His job is to make sure the show is set up within two days of arriving at a venue and that everything runs smoothly during performances.

He needs to have a complete understanding off all aspects of the show so that he can react to problems, correct mistakes and make sure everything is safe.

Only a few weeks ago his reactions were put to the test when a piece of set carrying 12 actors on its right hand side got stuck as three backstage staff tried to pull it upstage.

Before the actors were hit on the head by the canvas cloth coming down Mr Mulholland called for it to stop and a member of staff ran in to correct the problem.

"There's a health and safety thing here that you really need to be on the ball about anything above people's heads," he said.

"I have to watch everything that's moving."

You can see what a big job this is when you realise there are 143 individual tape marks on stage for the positions of people, props and scenery

"During the show I'm floating all over, moving to where the scene change is happening," he added.

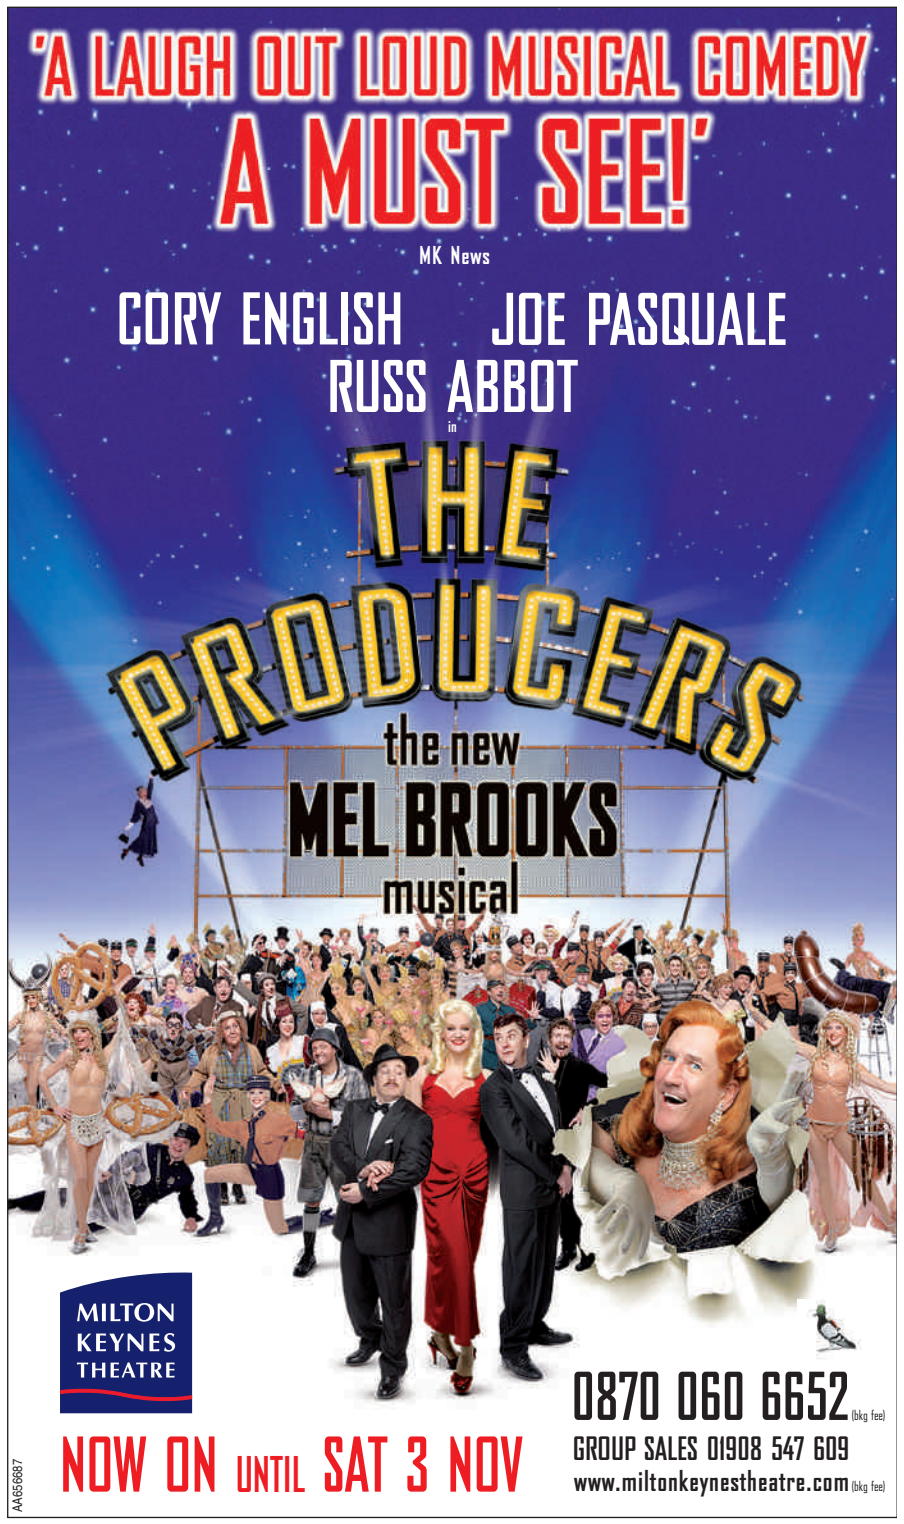
"I have to be in the optimum position to see everything."

So when you are rolling in the aisles loving Mel Brooks' humour just remember the people behind the scenes that make this glittering show a reality.

The Producers, which stars British comedians Joe Pasquale and Russ Abbott, runs at Milton Keynes Theatre until Saturday November 3.

There are still good seats available.

■ Tickets cost £15-£37.50 (plus a booking fee) from MK Theatre Box Office on 0870 060 6652, or at www.miltonkeynestheatre.com



Youth guilty of assault

A TEENAGER has been convicted of assault after setting on a father and his 13-year-old son in thecentre:mk.

The 17-year-old appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrate's Court on Thursday.

He pleaded guilty to charges of assault by beating on Dilip Nathwani and Nishay Dilip Nathwani at 5pm on September 29.

As the youth walked past Let's Eat on Eagle Walk, he bumped into the 13-year-old boy.

Both parties carried on walking but then the older teenager returned, asking them if they had a problem.

He grabbed the boy's arm, asking: 'Can I talk to you outside?', before knocking the father to the ground.

The attacker was asked by police if his actions were racially motivated and he said no.

His defence solicitor said he thought he recognised the boy as someone who attacked him three weeks earlier.

The youth, who cannot be named because of his age, was identified using CCTV stills.

He was granted unconditional bail and is due back in court next month for sentencing.

ing standards officers who offer advice on how to avoid the risk of selling booze to young people.

But despite this awareness campaign many retailers are still falling foul of the law with shop staff facing a personal on the spot fine of £80 and shop owners facing a fine of up to £2,500.

A report by Alcohol Concern found that during test purchasing youngsters obtained booze from bars and clubs 29 per cent of the time and 21 per cent were able to buy from off licences.

The report called, Glass Half Empty?, also found the amount of alcohol consumed by girls aged between 11-13 has increased by 82.6 per cent between 2000-2006, while for boys the number has gone

> The message seems to be failing to get through – a high number of off-licences sold alcohol without asking for identification
> – Allan Martin, senior trading standards officer

Allan Martin, senior trading standards officer, said: "We run a number of campaigns during the year urging retailers to always ask for identification. Whenever we get a complaint from the public on this issue we visit to the retailer to remind them of the law.

"Unfortunately this message seems to be failing to get through as from this operation a high number of off licences sold alcohol without asking for identification.

"We are also taking this message to schools and are urging teachers to issue Citizen ID cards to pupils."

Around 14 per cent of pupils excluded from school in the UK were suspended for drinking alcohol at school.

Srabani Sen, chief executive of Alcohol Concern, said: "Binge drinking by children can have serious consequences for brain function, significantly raises the risk of alcohol dependency in later life and diminishes their life chances.

"Our report shows that we are simply not doing enough to protect our children from alcohol."

Parents were also called upon by Alcohol Concern to enforce a no alcohol rule in the home, even though it is currently legal to provide children as young as five with alcohol in a private dwelling.

Buddha hunt for a VIP night out

Champagne and cash on offer in club's city-wide 'treasure hunt'

Buddha Blue manager Robin Lyle and owner Anfor Farooque with the golden Buddhas that can win you prizes

THE hunt for a Buddha is back, but this time they're 'golden' and will earn the finder a cool £100 cash.

Buddha Blue nightclub in the Theatre District will be hiding four golden Buddhas somewhere in MK between now and Christmas and if you manage to find one, you will win a VIP night out plus £100 cash to spend on whatever you like.

Before the RnB venue opened in April this year, 20 mini blue Buddhas were hidden throughout the city giving the holder exclusive tickets and a champagne reception at the VIP opening. Now management are turning blue to gold in the run up to Christmas and offering people the chance to win some extra seasonal spending money.

The four locations have been carefully selected and known by only two people, one of whom is owner Anfor Farooque.

He said: "The locations are a very closely guarded secret and already I've been inundated with 'kindness' in return for a clue but that's not going to happen.

The first Buddha will be hidden from today in a central location in the city, that's all I can say."

Once the first Buddha has been found, the holder will be invited to Buddha Blue with a friend on a night of their choice for a bottle of champagne. They will then be presented their cash prize in return for the golden statue.

In the next two weeks, the second Buddha will be 'released' and the fourth and final one will be extra special – more will be announced in December.

Mr Farooque adds: "We're coming up to the party season and we wanted to give people in MK something exciting and fun to interact with as well as some cash they might want to put towards this year's Christmas shopping."

The finder of the golden Buddha must be over 18 years old.

For more information about Buddha Blue and what's on, visit www.buddhablue.co.uk, call on 01908 241243 or text 'bblue' to 07800003282 for the venue's new mini website.

New road to improve hospital access

MILTON Keynes Hospital has opened a new access road.

The extension of the existing road from the Marlborough Street entrance is part of an expansion programme to meet the needs of the city's expanding population .

The upgraded transport links in and out of the hospital will cater for the increasing number of patients and provide the foundation for future buildings and clinical facilities to be built.

This is the second phase of a project that has also involved an upgrade of the hospital's infrastructure including a 1,000 space multi-storey car park, new roundabouts, better pavements and improvements to its existing helipad.

Wrecks removed from city streets

New powers see council clear more than 60 old vehicles

On the move: Council tow away notices on out of tax or dumped cars on Bradville

HUNDREDS of abandoned and 'nuisance' cars are being cleared from the city's streets.

Milton Keynes Council is celebrating a fall in the number of abandoned cars by more than half over the past three years as the clear-up message appears to be getting through to owners.

Since 2003/2004 the number of cars littering the streets fell from 2066 to 1030 following the introduction of a taskforce team dedicated to removing wrecks from the city by a combination of education and enforcement action.

The council launched a Dial a Wreck scheme to remove unwanted, damaged or unroadworthy vehicles from outside people's homes for £20 (£10 ifor people on benefits.

At the start of the year the campaign to drive old wrecks off the city's streets moved up a gear when the council started to use new powers aimed at nuisance cars – more than 60 have been removed in less than a year.

In the past council environment officers could do nothing to remove vehicles where ownership could be established but the car was a nuisance to the community.

Now they can impound a vehicle if it is not made roadworthy and taxed by the owners within seven days of a nuisance notice being served.

Alternatively the owner can request the vehicle be removed.

Rob Lawrence, local environmental quality manager at Milton Keynes Council, said: "In 2004 a team came into force to deal with abandoned cars that often were set alight and caused a nuisance in the community.

"Using a combination of education, statutory powers and the threat of fixed penalty notices of £200 this team has been successful in reducing the number of cars being abandoned on our streets.

"And when you consider the rate of growth in Milton Keynes and the number of extra cars on our roads this achievement is even more impressive."

■ Anyone who spots an abandoned vehicle can call the council's Dial a Wreck hotline on 01908 252277.

Good health rating for MK Hospital

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Hospital has been rated as 'good' by the Independent Health Watchdog.

It was awarded the 'good' rating for both the quality of services and for the use of resourses.

Last year Milton Keynes hospital scored 'fair' for use of resources and 'fair' for quality of services.

The annual health check assesses hospitals on a scale of 'excellent', 'good', 'fair' or 'weak'.

It looks at a wide range of areas, from the overall quality of care – including safety of patients, cleanliness and waiting times – to how well trusts manage their finances.

The Independent Health Watchdog examines healthcare provision, and the steps taken to make and sustain ongoing improvements in the healthcare provided.

Jill Rodney, chief executive of Milton Keynes Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, said: "We are delighted with this result.

"This is testament to the hard work and dedication of all Trust staff whose efforts have been rightly rewarded with such a positive assessment from the Healthcare Commission."

The trust achieved almost all of the core standards set by the Government regarding quality of services.

Its financial standing was found to be strong as all finance targets were achieved over at least the last three years.

Jill Rodney added: "These results are positive news, but also act as a starting point for us to make further enhancements to ensure local healthcare services continue to meet the needs and wishes of the people of Milton Keynes."

The trust chairman, Mike Rowlands, said: "This independent assessment of the high quality of NHS care here shows the hard work and dedication of staff over the past year."

'Three Curly Wurly's' sells out its first run

'I didn't really think the book would be so popular and I thought it would it takes years to sell the first print run': Author Lee Scriven, pictured standing right with Borders manager Richard Groom

A BOOK on the city's early years is back on the shelves after selling out its first print run.

Lee Scriven's Three Curly Wurlys and 106 Roundabouts has become one of the city's most popular local publications ever and is now in its second print run in just under 12 months

The book, sponsored by Invest MK and Marhsall Amplification, was released on the city's official 40th birthday on Wednesday January, 23.

Lee, a former sports journalist at MK NEWS, said: "I have to be honest and say I didn't really think the book would be so popular and I thought it would it takes years to sell the first print run.

"It's a big surprise, but a very nice one."

The 300-page book is contains hundreds of previously unseen pictures and tales of what it was like to work, rest and play in Milton Keynes during the 1970s.

Lee added: "Just before we moved from London, my dad would bring home big glossy magazines full of pictures and artists' impressions of the new city showing a lifestyle and society only previously witnessed on Joe 90.

"When I arrived, in the spring of 1974, there were only empty fields and streets full of mud so the promised space-age city had more in common with Joe Sudgen than Joe 90."

The book's nine chapters give readers a real insight to the city's early culture and its aspirations that included a monorail, heliport and a huge football stadium.

"Compared to other major towns and cities, celebrating 40-odd years might seem a bit daft but I felt it was important to mark the anniversary," said Lee.

"To personally experience the city growing from those early, chaotic days to it's current successful state made me realise that's it's been a remarkable story – one worth telling and, hopefully, one worth reading."

■ Priced at £14.99 Three Curly Wurlys and 106 Roundabouts is exclusively available at Borders Book Shop.

Lottery pulls plug on Waterway Park

PLANS to build the Milton Keynes Waterway Park have been dealt a huge blow after failing to secure a £25 million lottery grant.

But organisations backing the project have vowed to continue.

Speaking on behalf of the BMK Waterway Trust, project director Jane Wolfson said: "We may not have won the £25million grant for the construction of the waterway, but the £250,000 we were awarded earlier, plus the additional money and work in kind that contributed to the matched income, has allowed us to obtain planning permission, work up detailed route plans, and do the required studies that we need in order to start the construction of the waterway.

"This has allowed us to significantly progress the waterway during the past year.

"We will be continuing with the waterway project and will be seeking alternative funding."

The Big Lottery Bid was for the construction of the Milton Keynes section of the Bedford to Milton Keynes Waterway running six kilometres from the Grand Union Canal via Willen Lake, through Broughton Brook Linear Park into the eastern expansion area.

As the Milton Keynes arm of the Grand Union Canal it is a standalone project known as the Milton Keynes Waterway Park.

Cllr Chris Williams, MK Council cabinet member for transport and strategic planning said: "Of course it is very dissapointing that the Waterway Park did not win a lottery grant but it is included in the council's local plan, and the council will continue to support the project."

The Big Lottery crew filmed and interviewed all those working with the trust to have visual evidence for the Living Landmark Big Lottery bid. Project director Jane Wolfson is in front of the camera

Mind your head: Leon School headteacher Simon Vicars is removed after being cut out of car during Stay Alive Be Safe event

Lakes youngsters get a 'safety day'

STAY Alive Be Safe was the theme of an event to highlight the potential death traps canals, lakes, railways and roads pose to young people on a Milton Keynes housing estate.

All four of these surround the Lakes estate in Bletchley and pose a risk to life and limb to young people who do not recognise the real dangers linked to these transport links.

Milton Keynes Council joined forces with other emergency services and organisations to stage a safety awareness day yesterday.

Held at the Lakes Community Centre and at Leon School it featured a number of fun activities ranging from a surf simulator to bungee run to a climbing wall.

Demonstrations and mock accidents were staged ranging from a rescue from a swimming pool at Leon School to a mock road accident where the fire service cut out Leon school head teacher Simon Viccars from a car.

Other demonstrations included pan fires to highlight the dangers of leaving pans unattended and a lounge fire mock-up.

Organiser and council community development officer, Jan Locke, said: "It all started because we became aware of how the Lakes estate is literally surrounded by potential hazards.

"We spoke to Rail Safety Network who wanted to get involved in a safety awareness day and it snowballed from there with other services getting involved. We hope this event will show in a fun and highly visual way how dangerous it is to play around these water hazards and transport links."

Other organisations involved during the day included Diver City, Carlton Youth Swimming Club and Thames Valley Police.

The event was also supported by MK Community Volunteers, Leon School, Bletchley and Fenny Stratford Town Council and LECA.

No decision on wet house

BLETCHLEY and Fenny Stratford Town Council is remaining tight-lipped over whether or not it will continue to support an application to turn a Lakes Estate pub into a wet house.

A wet house is a place for vulnerable alcoholics to go and drink.

Crosslinks, a community charity, hopes to move into the London Pride pub at Serpentine Court and its plans include a wet house in the first floor flat.

The plans sparked an outcry from residents.

At a town council meeting last week, councillors were supposed to review their support of the application after finding out that plans were not just for a community centre.

But following the meeting, a spokesman would only say: "The town council is concerned about the potential mix of youth facilities with a wet house drop-in centre."

Last week Lakes Estate resident and chairman of the residents' association, Jeanette Marling, said she was furious about the lack of consultation.

Serpentine Court, where the London Pride pub is still trading, was a haven for alcoholics for many years, causing problems for families in the area before police put an end to the situation.

Wet house? The London Pride

Mrs Marling said: "We knew nothing about this. Obviously we are concerned.

"We have a history of alcoholics hanging around the shops and it was a major problem because we've got first and middle schools either end, a secondary school on one side and a mums and toddlers group.

"Mums walking their children to school were scared, and the alcoholics were urinating through the railings onto the school grounds."

By moving into the pub Crosslinks hopes to offer all of its services under one roof.

It wants to offer a community centre with a cafe, offices for community groups, facilities for young person's activities and temporary accomodation for vulnerable people including the wet house in the first floor flat.

Crosslinks Centre manager Keith Silverthorne said: "We discussed our plans with MK Housing and they asked if we'd ever thought about having a safe wet house. We said no way would we take into our property - to be with our staff - anybody who was going to be difficult.

"If anybody with a history of violence or anti-social behaviour came, we couldn't take them in because we couldn't manage."

The centre runs a community cafe, an over-55s lunch club, the monthly Milton Keynes Physically Disabled Club and a weekly club for young people with learning difficulties.

It also delivers free emergency food parcels to families in need on the estate in conjunction with the housing office and community support nurses.

Care home reprieved

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A DRAMATIC turn-around has been made on plans to close a care home for people with advanced dementia.

MHA Care Group has decided to scrap plans to close Westbury Care Home, Newport Pagnell following a consultation with residents' relatives.

The group announced in July that the 20-year old facilities are out of date.

It now intends to replace the facility providing a wider range of services for people with dementia on the site including more care places.

An extension will first be built into which current residents can move, before the old buildings are replaced.

However, the plans are all subject to planning permission being granted.

Anna Marshall-Day, spokesman for MHA, said: "The new, improved buildings will include nursing and dementia care home places and flats for individuals and couples, one or both of whom need 24-hour care.

"All residents will be offered the choice of the new care facilities prior to the care home being replaced."

MHA announced its intention to close the Westbury Care Home alongside the ExtraCare Charitable Trust, which also plans to close Tweed House Nursing Home, Bletchley.

Richard Tower, spokesman for ExtraCare said following consultation it still intends to close the home in July 2008.

"We will continue to talk to residents and staff to support their needs throughout the transition," he said.

Being on the piste proves a springboard for success

Student combines ski slope experience and uni course knowledge to design snowboards

AN engineering student has gone from classroom to ski slope to create a new range of snowboards.

Cranfield University student Liza Brooks used the knowledge gained on her doctorate course to create the range.

Liza, 23, has now started a company True Snowboards with Simon Edmonds and Dr David Chang after undertaking research on the university's EngD programme.

She combined her love for winter sports with her studies in advanced snowboard design, focusing on board structures and vibration isolation.

She has already used her research findings to develop two board structures for mountain piste and freestyle events.

Her latest creations are for downhill jumps, rails and one specifically for children.

Liza defines the products as 'designed by engineers who snowboard', setting the boards apart from the market leaders.

Although only a year old, True Snowboards has grown into a successful business supplying boards direct to snowboarders across the UK and abroad.

After the first year of the four-year course, Liza said: "Through my research at Cranfield, I'm making strides to design practical structures using high-end materials that are usually only found in more expensive boards.

True test: Liza Brooks on the slopes with one of her snowboards

"True Snowboards sponsors a number of riders from the McNab junior team and earlier this year two of our riders won gold at the British Snowboard Championships in Laax, Switzerland, using boards that we had designed using our new technology.

"While I can't take all the credit for their success, early indications and feedback show that our boards are improving their performance and enjoyment."

Over the next three years of study Liza will continue to test and analyse the strengths and mechanics of more boards while learning about the management side of running a business.

The data she collects in the labs, combined with feedback from real-life tests, will be used to improve existing products for the public, as well as produce bespoke boards for riders which she hopes will get them to the 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver.

Planning gain change

A SCHEME developed by Milton Keynes Partnership (MKP) is to be rolled out across the country,

The Infrastructure Tariff scheme, which involves developers paying a fixed sum on property schemes, has receieved backing from Housing Miniser Yvette Cooper.

Typically a developer will pay £18,500 to MKP for each new house or around £67 for every square metre of commercial floor space.

The money is then used for investment in the infrastructure of the city including transport, hospitals, schools and community spaces.

Already MK Hospital has received £1.9 million towards the upgrade of its internal infrastructure including a new roadway, roundabouts and improvements to its existing helipad, providing better transport links into the hospital.

It will replace the proposed Planning Gain Supplement scheme.

Jane Hamilton, chief operating officer for Milton Keynes Partnership said: "We're delighted the Government has recognised the hard work, planning and dedication that has gone into Milton Keynes Infrastructure Tariff.

"The tariff exemplifies the innovative thinking and partnership working undertaken by MKP and is already bringing enormous benefits to our city.

"Once again Milton Keynes is a city of firsts with this ground breaking approach to forward funding infrastructure now being replicated across the country."

'Ideas group' for future transport

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A NEW group is to give people a chance to comment on the future of transport in Milton Keynes.

Milton Keynes Council has given the go ahead for Citizens' Advisory Group to discuss transport and the growth of the city.

The group will make recommendations about the future of transport to the key decision makers, Milton Keynes Council and Milton Keynes Partnership.

It will include up to 30 members from a cross-section of residents from both rural and urban areas.

Council officers will only be involved to provide information and advice as required.

The estimated cost of the scheme is £100,000.

Cllr Chris Williams, cabinet member for transport, said that he wanted to set up the group to help plan for the large number of new housing coming to Milton Keynes.

"Because of the growing nature of Milton Keynes, transport is a big issue and is going to have a fundamental impact," he said.

"It is not just about buses, trains and cars, it is also about cycling, walking, road layout and other highways issues.

"As we get bigger obviously the requirements become greater and more complicated.

"We need to start thinking now for ten or 20 years' time."

He hopes the group will provide a non-political forum for the wide range of views on transport in the city to be discussed.

"The CAG is completely independent of the council," he added.

"I want them to come up with something that is not politically biased.

"I will recommend to them that they contact every conceivable group in Milton Keynes from both sides of opinion such as the Car Users Lobby and the Green Party, Urban Eden and parish councils – anybody and everybody."

The group is expected to submit an interim report with its conclusions after six months.

Its final plans will be included in Milton Keynes Council's Transport Strategy.

Who will deal with your affairs and welfare if you can't? Don't lose your right to choose your Attorney by waiting until its too late.

From the 1st October 2007 the Enduring Power of Attorney (EPA) has been replaced with a revised type of power called a Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA). However, EPAs made prior to 1 October will continue to be valid.

The LPA has now replaced the EPA as one of the most important legal protection mechanisms for your future. Indeed having an LPA in place is just as important as making a Will because it affects you during your lifetime. The benefit of the LPA is that it will allow you and your family the certainty of knowing who will deal with your affairs and personal welfare if you become incapable of making decisions about these things yourself. Moreover, you will have the comfort of knowing that the Attorney dealing with your affairs is the person of your choice and not someone whom the Court chooses to appoint on your behalf.

Unlike the EPA, an LPA will need to be registered with the Court of Protection before it may be used by your attorney(s).

A person can make two types of LPA, one dealing with financial matters which enables your Attorney to act on your behalf in relation to your financial affairs (as do EPAs) and one concerning personal welfare.

A Property and Affairs Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) allows you to plan ahead by choosing one or more people to make decisions on your behalf regarding your property and financial affairs.

You can appoint a property and affairs Attorney to manage your finances and property whilst you still have capacity as well as when you lack capacity. For example, it may be easier for you to give someone the power to carry out tasks such as paying your bills if you find it difficult to get about. Please note that the document has to be registered before it can be used.

A Personal Welfare Lasting Power of Attorney allows you to plan ahead by choosing one or more people to make decisions on your behalf regarding your personal healthcare and welfare.

As you can see the protection offered by an LPA can be invaluable. Please contact us today to see how we can help.

Have a say on how MK will be developed

TIME is running out for local people to have their say on vital new city planning guidelines.

Consultation began at the end of September and is due to end on Thursday, November 8 on Milton Keynes Council's new Core Strategy, which as the name suggests, will be at the centre of all future planning policies.

Head of planning David Hackforth said: "This will form the heart of any future planning decisions made in Milton Keynes so it is vital that we hear views from as many people as possible, from all walks of life."

Once adopted, the Core Strategy will form part of the Local Development Framework, providing the vision, objectives and overarching strategy for managing the sustainable development of the borough up to 2026 and beyond and identifying the key directions for the future growth of the city.

Reference copies of the Core Strategy, Sustainability Appraisal and other supporting documentation are available to view at the Council's Civic Offices, 1 Saxon Gate East, Central Milton Keynes, MK9, 3HQ during normal office hours (9am to 5.15 pm, Monday to Friday). All libraries within the borough (opening times vary) have a copy of the draft Core Strategy to view.

The Core Strategy can be viewed – and comments added – on-line using the new on-line consultation system at: http://consultation.limehouse.co.uk/milton-keynes/drafts/8/index.html

Alternatively, if people do want to respond to this consultation on paper they can do so, but they will need to complete and return a comments form with their representation, so the council has all the information needed to process any representation, people wish to make.

Copies of comments forms are available from the council's development plans Team or from all libraries in the Borough. Hard copies of any paper comments received will be available to view at the Council's Civic Offices during normal office hours, 9am to 5.15pm, Monday to Friday.

Completed Comments Forms should be returned to the Development Plans Team, using our freepost address (no stamp needed): Development Plans Team, Milton Keynes Council, FREEPOST NATE 294, Planning, LUTS, Civic Offices, 1 Saxon Gate East, Central Milton Keynes, MK9 3HQ.

Receipt of all comments will be acknowledged.

The deadline for receipt of representations by the development plans team at the Council's Civic Offices at 1 Saxon Gate East, is no later than 5.30pm on Thursday, November 8, 2007.

It is advised all comments are submitted as soon as possible.

■ For help, further information or to obtain a copy of the Core Strategy and other documents on a CD-Rom contact the helpline number on 01908-252599.

> This will form the heart of any future planning decisions made in Milton Keynes so it is vital that we hear views from as many people as possible, from all walks of life

Posh party rich kids wanted for TV show

Telly company is looking for the biggest birthday bash in the city

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

ARE you a spoilt rich kid about to celebrate a birthday party to rival celebrity bashes?

MTV is looking for the city's biggest, most extravagent and expensive party to film for a new series.

It will be a UK spin-off of America's 'Super Sweet 16' series, called 'My Super Sweet UK'.

MTV has teamed up with local teen night MKVibe to find someone aged between 14 and 21-years-old who is willing to celebrate in front of the cameras.

The TV network contacted MKVibe's management looking for city kids with wealthy parents planning on throwing a 'coming of age' celebration on a grand scale.

MTV will film the chosen family's everyday life including the preparations leading up to the birthday celebration that will later be broadcast on MTV.

MKVibe will be working with MTV to put together the ultimate party for filming as well as work with the selected family.

The US version features some of the richest kids across various states. It is packed full of tantrum-throwing teenagers, stroppy siblings, stressed parents and school rivals that makes hugely entertaining TV complete.

Spokesman for MKVibe, Daniel Jones said: "We're delighted MTV has chosen to work with MKVibe.

"This opportunity will allow us to demonstrate our abilities to host one of the biggest parties ever and will hopefully allow us to attract an international artist - depending on the parent's budget."

MTV is commissioning the UK version, which will give youngsters a chance to show how 'precious' us Brits can be, after the US show was such a massive hit.

If you are aged between 14 and 21, are having a party between now and the end of the year and think mummy and daddy have an expendable budget, contact MKVibe on info@mkvibe.com or visit www.mkvibe.com

Bus broadband for businessmen

NATIONAL Express is to provide free Wi-Fi on its bus service between Milton Keynes and Canary Wharf.

It will be the company's second free broadband service.

It introduced Wi-Fi on its Cambridge to London service earlier this year.

Cathryn Jeeves, project manager at National Express, said: "The Milton Keynes to London route is particularly popular with business commuters.

"The journey takes a little over two hours, and we want to deliver services that enable our customers to make best use of their time.

"Internet access at broadband speeds is a natural choice."

The system also enables National Express to connect directly to on-board CCTV cameras and track vehicle positions via the built-in GPS locator.

THE COMEDY CLUB

@ City Limits

Thursday, October 25

ANOTHER evening of side splitting fun awaits you at City Limits.

First up is Windsor, pictured.

Having developed and honed his act as a street performer, hence perhaps being named after one of the most responsive venues for buskers, Windsor has taken the world of stand-up with an act that is unique in both its abrasiveness and its brilliance.

He's also very good with hecklers and mean people.

Next is Otiz Cannelloni.

Billing himself as a 'Reluctant Messiah, Man of the People with an O-level in Woodwork', Otiz Canneloni has been variously described as a comic genius, a phenomenon and someone you've never heard of!

Last up is Jeff Innocent

One of the truly big stars, in more than ways than one, of modern British comedy, East Ender Jeff Innocent is that dangerous breed, a big man with a brain.

This unique contrast is the product of a colourful life growing up in London's East End, which has seen him combine working as a bouncer while also boasting an academic background.

Such experiences form the cornerstone of his act and his talent has seen him land numerous roles on film and TV, including appearing alongside fellow hard-man turned thespian Vinny Jones in Mean Machine.

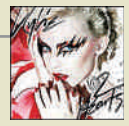
ALBUM REVIEW

2 HEARTS
Kylie Minogue



Most of the time, the phrase 'new Kylie single' fills me with horror. I've never been much of a fan of her poppy stuff, and that goes right back to when I Should Be So Lucky kept Bomb the Bass off the top spot.

It's a good thing for her that she knows how to re-invent herself then, but then I suppose when you've been in the business we call music for as long as she has, you don't have much choice do you?

I mean really, if she was still releasing stuff as twee as Got To Be Certain nowadays, she'd be laughed out of town and rightly so. As a result, one minute she's doing pop, another minute she's gone all indie, next thing you know she's gone back to pop and now, well, God only knows what she's playing at now.

This certainly isn't pop as know it, and it's certainly not indie. I'll tell you what it does sound like though, and that's she's holding up a copy of Spinning Around in one hand saying" 'This is what you wanted' then holding up a copy of 2 Hearts in the other and finishing with 'but this is what you're getting', then walking away laughing her head off.

There's a bit of blues in here, not to mention some glam rock and lounge singer elements, it's played with real instruments, it's lazily paced and Kylie's so chilled out she's practically speaking her words. I honestly couldn't tell you what bright spark thought all that would be a good idea, and frankly I couldn't care less.

The fact of the matter is that Kylie Minogue has just released comfortably her best single since Confide In Me and a genuine contender for Best Kylie Single Ever.

It's one of those rare singles that gets everything absolutely right, I think it's fantastic.

This is her first single in nearly ten years that doesn't sound as though it was recorded with chart placings in mind, and I'm giving it a huge recommendation.

UNINVITED
Freemasons

IN which Alanis Morissette's rather haunting little number gets some go-faster stripes so it'll sound better in the clubs.

Actually, to be fair to Freemasons, they've shown a decent amount of respect to the original, so it's turned out to be pretty good, and that's all I need to say on the matter.

LET'S DANCE TO JOY DIVISION
Wombats

THIS song's a mess. It's a likeable mess though, and doesn't sound much like any Joy Division song I know.

It's loud, raucous, frenetic and you never know what direction it's going to take next. It's certainly different though, and I like this one too.

BLEEDING LOVE
Leona Lewis

Substitute the word 'love' with 'awful'. Leona Lewis has approached this single with a 'tonight Matthew, I'm going to be Mariah Carey' mindset. She overdoes the emotional outbursts just a smidgen but it's the poor drummer I feel sorry for. Sounds like he's using empty Quality Street tins. You see, necessity is the mother of invention, or was that Frank Zappa's backing band? Anyway, this song's a bit too 'feel my pain, damn you' for me. If they'd kept it simple this would've been much better but they haven't and it isn't.

BRIT ARTS

PHOEBE UNWIN: A SHORT WALK FROM A SHOUT TO A WHISPER
MK Gallery
Until November 4
THIS is the first major exhibition by the British painter.

Unwin's paintings shift between figuration and abstraction.

Throughout her practice, Phoebe Unwin works incessantly in an A3 drawing book, creating a personal register of images and marks. Individual pages are worked up simultaneously creating visual dialogues, some obvious, some obscure as Unwin teases and collages images, shapes and forms from the format of the page and materials at hand in pastel, pencil and acrylic.

This exhibition will be accompanied by an illustrated catalogue with a text by Max Henry.

ALEX FROST: ADULTS
MK Gallery
Until November 4
BRITISH artist Alex Frost works in a variety of media.

This exhibition will present a selection of recent sculptures, drawings and mosaic panels. These reflect Frost's interest in the conflation of modern technology, the serial and the multiple with a distinctive hand-made aesthetic.

His work ranges from the miniature to the monumental, from intimate decoration to architectural intervention and locates itself in many differing contexts.

Frost's Adults are rock-like sculptures, malformed and enlarged versions of food packaging that are at once sophisticated and clumsy.

Drop a dress size for Christmas and you could look like this

"I dropped 3 dress sizes in just 6 weeks"

I liked all the wrong foods especially crisps and nuts, and my weight kept creeping up and up. I wasn't happy being a size 18 but crash dieting only made me put on more weight.

I had tried a slimming club, but didn't like the group element and their food plans didn't fit in with my social life.

When SureSlim got the results of my blood test, it confirmed that I had high levels of glucose in my system, which made me more hungry than I should have been, subsequently I was over-eating. SureSlim then drew up a food plan based on what would work for me. The first week I struggled, wondering how I would cope without milk in my tea, but by week two I wasn't even thinking about it.

I've not just lost the weight either – I've also lost the overwhelming feeling of tiredness that I used to have.

I was comfort eating as I was stressed in my job and the weight just crept up. That's when I realised I had to do something. Once I started on the plan to my amazement I lost 10 pounds in the first 10 days!

And now I've reached my goal weight in time for the party season – so I can happily wear my little red dress!

We are holding an Open Evening for any members of our local community to come and see the school in action.

The school will be open from 6.00pm to 8.00pm for any member of the community. During the evening, pupuls will be working in all areas of the curriculum and it will be a chance for all those who live near us to see what work we do and the excellent levels achieved.

Please do come along (and bring a friend) and see what we are doing here at Heronsgate.

Looking forward to seeing you on the 7th

Mr D J Harper

Review by Laura Hannam

THIS new restaurant offers London-inspired Indian and Bengalise cuisine in a pleasant environment.

It was opened at the beginning of October by brothers Mohammed Saidul Haque and Nurul Islam.

Mr Haque was previously a manager at the award winning Bengal Clipper restaurant near Tower Bridge, London.

His brother-in-law, head chef Salim Uddin also brings his expertise from Preem Restaurant in Brick Lane, the London street famed for Indian cuisine.

The restaurant offers a good menu with all the favourites and a wide selection of new things to try.

They also have their own special dishes and set menus, perfect if you want to dip into lots of different dishes.

We began with papadums (50p each) with dips as an appetizer.

For starters I ordered King Prawn Puri (£3.95), spicy king prawns on Indian fried bread. I chose this dish as I had never tried the fried bread before and I was not disappointed. It was a delicious, soft pancake-like bread that made a great accompaniment to the prawns covered in a flavoursome sauce.

My guest ordered the King Prawn Butterfly (£3.95), which consisted of king prawns dipped in special batter and deep fried.

For the main course I ordered Lamb Tikka Massala (£6.95) from the list of chef's recommendations. The lamb was tender and the massala sauce smooth and full of flavour with hints of coconut and almond.

My guest ordered the Golda Chingri Massala, fresh giant prawns from the Bay of Bengal cooked in the clay oven then gently simmered in a spicy red massala sauce.

We also shared the Akbori Chicken (£7.95), another of the chef's recommended dishes and recommended by Mr Haque. The tender chicken tikka was cooked with fresh herbs, coriander, green chilli, garlic, tomatoes and capsicum.

On the side we had pilau rice (£1.95) and nan bread with chopped fresh garlic (£1.95).

The meal was delicious and the service friendly and helpful, even when my guest decided to throw red wine all over the table!

We would certainly like to return, or perhaps try their take away menu which offers a ten per cent discount.

All employers to be quizzed in city-wide questionnaire

MILTON Keynes employers are being asked to lend their support to a survey that will provide valuable data on the economy of Milton Keynes.

Milton Keynes Economy & Learning Partnership has arranged for questionnaires for the 2007 Employment Survey to be mailed to all known employers across the borough – public, private and voluntary – an estimated 8,500.

This is an established survey that has been undertaken on a regular basis for over 30 years and is a key tool for monitoring the local economy.

The survey results will be published in spring next year. MKELP executive director Colin Fox explained: "The results will provide a clear understanding of the borough's key and growing business sectors and ensure a solid foundation exists on which to attract new businesses, develop business support services, provide evidence to secure funding and influence policy makers".

> The results from the survey will inform the on-going debate on the long term development and resourcing of Milton Keynes
> – Head of Milton Keynes Business Leaders, Peter Muir

Colin highlighted that the last survey (conducted in 2005) was used for this very purpose: "It enabled us to support Invest Milton Keynes to achieve record enquiries and secure 58 inward investment successes; attract over £3m of SEEDA funding for specific economic development projects and encourage other investment in the city."

Head of Milton Keynes Business Leaders, Peter Muir CBE says the involvement of the business community is essential: "The results from the survey will inform the on-going debate on the long term development and resourcing of Milton Keynes. The survey provides local employers with a measure of our progress and successes over the last two years."

For the Chamber of Commerce, CEO Rita Spada is encouraging members and non-members to complete the questionnaire: "The majority of the Chamber's members are SMEs, and it's most important that everyone should feel their response adds weight to the survey, no matter what the size of business.

"We are more than happy to ask members for their support in ensuring this is a success and would encourage all employers to contribute."

Overall the survey provides an opportunity to secure evidence to help enhance the growth and development of the business community.

Shredded paper bedding makes horse sense

MILTON Keynes-based commercial property consultants, Aitchison Raffety, has found a novel way to recycle their shredded paper.

It is being used as stable bedding at Gina Swan's racehorse rehabilitation and pre-training centre near Towcester.

Commercial surveyor Jimmy James, who rides out at the centre, said: "Some horses unfortunately eat straw and consequently suffer from stomach colic which can cause death.

"Luckily these horses are not tempted to eat paper so it makes an excellent substitute and we are delighted to be able to recycle the paper in this way."

Jimmy is pictured with Gritti Palace on his paper bedding. It is hoped that the horse will resume his promising hurdling career.

Don't let illness become an issue – bless you!

ILL health, combined with a culture where 'illness equals weakness' is hitting organisations across the region.

The Quality of Working Life report reveals that 56 per cent of workers in the area claim illness rates in their organisation have gone up over the last 12 months 11 per cent of managers in the region also believe their health is deteriorating.

But one-in-three managers in the region claim a culture of not taking time off work for sickness exists in their organisation and alarmingly only 58 per cent of employees feel they would be treated sympathetically if they were ill.

The report, published by Chartered Management Institute and Simplyhealth makes it clear that sickness at work does not translate into sick leave from work.

For example, 42 per cent of those reporting symptoms relating to stomach bugs in the past year did not take sick leave and only four per cent suffering from stress took time off from work, despite one-in-three citing stress symptoms.

The impact of this attitude is seen through declining performance, wanting enthusiasm and increasing levels of suspicion.

Based on the views of 1,511 managers, key findings include:

■ Poor productivity - only 39 per cent of respondents claim to be operating 'at or near park productivity'.

With 67 per cent in the region claiming their productivity was reduced by ill-health, this shows the extent to which health and productivity are inextricably linked.

■ Commitment to the cause - One-in-two managers said they were not 'positively motivated' about work, with 53 per cent in the region suggesting they worked beyond contract hours because of work volume and deadlines.

Fewer are prepared to make up the lost time too, with only 28 per cent working two hours or more per day over contracted hours, down from 45 per cent in 2000.

■ Motivation matters - 71 per cent suggest that ill health reduced enjoyment of their job and although half (52 per cent) say their organisation is committed to employee well-being, only 37 per cent in the region agree that their line-manager cares specifically about their health.

Jo Causon, director of marketing and corporate affairs at the Chartered Management Institute, said: "While many employers bemoan the cost of absence to their organisations, they fail to see the damage done by creating a culture where illness is seen as a weakness. "The risk of mistakes or spreading sickness surely outweighs the short-term benefits of someone turning up for work when not fully fit."

Time out: Just under half of managers reporting stomach bugs in the past year did not take sick leave and only four per cent suffering from stress took time off from work, despite a third citing symptoms

Probably the most important job you'll ever do.

Recycling Support Officers x2

£17,283 - £20,716 pa plus excellent benefits including work vehicle

Fixed-term contract for 3 years

Our Council is proud of its track record in waste minimisation and recycling.

But we don't rest on our laurels – we can do more and we need your help. We need to keep getting our message out there about what goes in what bin. Sounds simple, but these are the kind of roles that need special talents. Any experience of waste management you may have would be useful, but not essential. More importantly, you'll need to be enthusiastic, persuasive and driven when dealing with people – the kind of person who can convince people of just how important recycling is.

Whilst there is an office element to these roles, you will primarily be out-and-about in our District making a real difference to our environment.

If you are this kind of self-motivated team player, call Steve Whittaker on 01462 611344 to find out more.

For further details and an information pack please contact the HR Team, Priory House, Monks Walk, Chicksands, Shefford, Beds, SG17 5TQ or telephone 01462 611022 for the 24 hour job line, or email recruitment@midbeds.gov.uk quoting reference 3990. Details can also be downloaded from our website www.midbeds.gov.uk Please note we do not accept CVs.

MKMOTORING

Looking good is what the Honda Civic does best

THE wow-factor in the way the Honda Civic looks isn't created through appendages like body-coloured bumpers, aggressive spoilers or big alloy wheels which can be stripped away to leave the entry-level model looking singularly unappetising.

It's a product of the car's essential design. The multi-angular rear end, the slashes of light across the nose and tail, the plunging roofline and the stocky silhouette: the Civic's stand out features are as eye-catching on the entry-level 1.4-litre model as they are on the plusher derivatives.

Buyers at this level miss out on the twin chrome exhausts but otherwise, there's little to make you feel inferior to people who've parted with £640 more for the 1.8 or nearly £2,000 more for a 2.2 diesel.

The 1.4-litre DSI engine is available only with the SE trim level priced at £14,265.

It includes power steering, central locking, remote keyless entry, twin front and side airbags, ABS with EBD, brake assist, electric heated mirrors, a height adjustable driver's seat and 60:40 split rear seats.

To this, the SE also adds a CD stereo, active head restraints, climate control, a refrigerated glovebox and steering wheel-mounted audio controls.

As well as the Civic's exquisite exterior, the car has an interior straight out of a 1980s sci-fi show. When seated at the wheel, you half expect to turn to your left and see one of the Cylons from Battlestar Galactica riding shotgun.

The multi-layered dash is a daunting thing to come to terms with at first but at least the entry-level 1.4-litre models do without some of the more advanced features which thins down the button quota a bit.

If you can fight the initial urge to panic and grab at the manual, you'll find that the car is surprisingly intuitive to use.

The 1.4-litre i-DSI engine is an 82bhp unit that, like most Honda petrol units, responds well to being revved quite hard.

Peak power is achieved at 5,700rpm, so there is a benefit to be gleaned from holding on to your gears that shade longer.

Performance isn't really the point of this powerplant but if you really persevere, it will spirit the Civic from 0 to 62mph in 14.6 seconds, way down on the 8.9s sprint that's achievable in the 1.8-powered model.

The 1.4 i-DSI is the engine to go for if your life at the wheel seems to be spent in one long traffic jam.

The engine is ideal for crawling along through urban sprawl, with its modest 47.9mph combined and 37.2mpg urban fuel economy figures and hushed refinement.

Torque of 119Nm is produced at 2,800rpm and this helps when pulling out briskly into tight gaps in the traffic.

There's also the option of Honda's i-SHIFT 6-speed automatic transmission which is quite jerky in the best traditions of auto boxes in small cars but will take the strain off your left leg.

Honda's Civic 1.4 i-DSI is an entry-level family hatch that doesn't constantly remind you of the fact.

The engine is refined, economical and reasonably sprightly, build quality is good and there's a surprising degree of practicality to the interior.

Its £13,195 price point is a shade above the base Focus, Megane and Golf models but the bog standard Civic feels a more complete car.

Specify some nice alloys from the options list, your 1.4 will look nine tenths as good as a range-topping derivative and looking good is what the Civic does best.

STOCKPORT COUNTY
League Two
Saturday, October 27. KO 3pm stadium:mk

IN recent years the Dons have had the upper hand over Stockport with three wins in their last four meetings.

And this time round Stockport face the mammoth task of trying to keep the Dons at bay, Paul Ince's men have scored in all of their 12 games this season.

The Hatters have suffered a dip in form of late, they have not won in the league in four games and in that time they have conceded 12 goals.

Aaron Wilbraham

Anthony Elding could be Stockport's danger man, the lively striker has bagged six goals in thirteen appearances so far, but he may not feature as the club have suspended him while they investigate a potential breach of contract.

Paul Ince is expected to name the same side that beat Hereford 1-0, with Mark Wright keeping his place while Jude Stirling serves a one match ban, and former-Hatter Aaron Wilbraham lining up alongside Leon Knight up front.

On the day the referee will be Steven Cook, he has taken charge of five games this season and in the process has handed out 14 yellow cards - seven of those in one match.

DONS academy star Liam Kelly has been named in the Scotland Under-18s squad that will travel to France this weekend.

The midfielder, in his second year scholar with the Dons, has been named in the 18-man squad which will face Turkey, France and United States in the week-long tour.

The 17-year-old was named Most Improved Academy Player of the Year last season and was on the bench for the Dons' Carling Cup game against Sheffield United.

Dons Under 18s manager, Mike Dove, said: "Liam has a great attitude, he wants to be a winner and has worked exceptionally hard on his game in the last few years."

MK Dons Under-18s grabbed a well deserved 2-1 win over in-form Aston Villa.

Villa had won their previous six games but faced a tough challenge to keep the Dons at bay in the first half.

Stephane Koffi had forced the Villa keeper to make key saves before Sam Baldock pounced on a spilt ball to break the deadlock early in the second half.

Villa were back in the game when Daniel Bradley pulled them back on level terms but Liam Kelly's curling effort 12 minutes from time secured victory for the Dons.

MK Dons and Boston United have the best behaved fans in top flight football according to new Home Office figures.

Statistics on Football-Related Arrests and Banning Orders were released on Friday and revealed both the Dons and the Pilgrims had one supporter arrested during the 2006-07 season and currently have no banning order restrictions.

Manchester United top the hooliganism charts with 192 fans arrested and 90 given banning orders.

MK DONS v HEREFORD UNITED SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20

Mark Wright fires in the Dons' late winner at Hereford last Saturday

Seven-up for keeper Gueret

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

MK Dons are proving to be a tough nut to crack at the top of the league as they extended their winning run to nine games with a 1-0 win at Hereford United.

Paul Ince's side now have a four point safety net and with a quarter of the season already gone they are increasingly being seen as the team to beat.

However, Hereford, in front of their largest crowd of the season, were not prepared to simply hand over the points and were lively opposition despite having to play the whole second half with ten men.

Steve Guinan was shown a straight red card deep in stoppage time following a clumsy challenge on Lloyd Dyer.

The Bulls midfielder had played an integral part in their strong performance in the game, but when he lost the ball on the halfway line and saw a clean pair of heels from Dyer he quickly brought down the Dons winger.

As expected there was debate in both camps as to whether the challenge warranted a red, Bulls manager Steve Turner said: "It was nothing more than a trip and most people like me were staggered when the referee produced the red card."

But Dons assistant boss Ray Mathias was of the opinion that the referee followed the letter of the law, he said: "I can assure you Lloyd Dyer thought he would have scored, so for me it's a goal scoring opportunity and he's denied him that so it's a sending off."

The Dons had struggled to get into their stride for a large part of the first half and they had goalkeeper Willy Gueret to thank for keeping the scores level at half time.

Leon Knight battles with the Bulls' Clint Easton and Ben Smith

Gueret, who has kept seven clean sheets this season, was forced into action early to deny John McCombe at the far post and then brilliantly stopped Ben Smith's well-struck 20-yard effort.

Despite falling a man behind the Bulls were resilient throughout and made the Dons work hard for every ball.

But with tired legs it was only a matter of time until a goal came and the Dons began to pepper the Bulls' box.

Mark Wright, in his first start in the league since the start of September due to a spell on the sidelines, was back in the side as Jude Stirling was ruled out with a shoulder injury. And the former Walsall winger grabbed his chance with two hands as he emerged as the hero at Edgar Street when he netted the only goal in the game just minutes from the end.

Wright has already shown in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy he is capable of grabbing match winning goals when he put on a fantastic performance to knock fellow League Two side Peterborough United out of the competition.

The finely executed late winner sent the travelling support home happy and pleased the Dons' bench.

Mathias said: "It was not a good angle, he still had the keeper to beat and he's done it well. It was a good strike and a good finish.

"In the second half they tried to stifle us again with their ten men, it was difficult, they made life really hard for us."

PAUL MITCHELL WRITES FOR YOU

PAUL MITCHELL

I AM sorry to say that I couldn't make it to the game on Saturday so a lot of my opinions about the contest are based on newspaper reports, TV highlights and speaking to the lads and staff.

Everyone more or less came to the same conclusion – a very good away victory against a stubborn Hereford outfit.

It's never easy when a team goes down to 10 men as they usually sit and try to hold out for a point.

We are beginning to get used to this tactic as that is what most home games are like when the opposition has eleven players.

The game again showed what great strength in depth we have after an unfortunate training ground accident ruled Jude out.

I think everybody who has seen us this year will agree that he has been fantastic and he has been ever-present in this great run we are having.

I know speaking to him he was gutted but these things can happen.

As I said in last week's column, when you get your chance in a team where the manager sets the highest standards you have to take it. By all accounts that's exactly what Wrighty did, playing well and scoring the winner – I don't think you can do much more.

Each and every one of the boys knows that not only do they have to perform every match, they also have to produce it in training as there is competition for places from one to 16.

This and the manager's ability to get the best out of players are what keeps the winning run going.

I know I probably say this every week but we will be up against another very capable side in Stockport County who were unlucky not to make the play-offs last year and will be looking to go one better this season.

We also know that every team loves to beat the club at the top and hopefully this is something we will get used to as there is no better place to be.

I will DEFINITELY see you all Saturday and hopefully we will be able to create the same atmosphere as the last home game.

MOTOR RACING

Constructors' fifth a best for Bulls

RED Bull Racing's season ended on a disappointing note with only David Coulthard finishing the Brazilian Grand Prix.

More than seven million people tuned into the final race with the hope of seeing a British driver claim the title after an eleven year wait.

But nothing went to plan for Lewis Hamilton and while all eyes were on the rookie's bid to beat team mate Fernando Alonso and Kimi Raikkonen to the title, Red Bull had their own battle to win.

The MK-based team were just five points behind their Williams counterparts in the constructors championship and with Mark Webber qualifying in fifth place, there was every chance of Red Bull stealing fourth spot in the constructors' stakes behind Ferrari, BMW and Renault.

Yet, just as Webber had pushed up a place on the track the technical problems crept in and the Aussie was forced to retire from the race after the engine became disconnected to the gearbox on the 14th lap.

It began to look a bit better for Red Bull when Coulthard was in the running for eighth, but after his final pit stop he slid into the back of Kazuki Nakajima and damaged his front suspension.

From then on Coulthard never looked capable of taking points and crossed the line in ninth place.

In the final drivers' standings Coulthard finished in tenth place with 14 points and Webber claimed 13th with ten points.

Fifth in the constructors championship is the best ever finish for Red Bull .

Race stewards investigated alleged fuel irregularities by Williams and BMW Sauber, but decided not to punish them.

However, McLaren challenged the decision but the stewards' decision was upheldby the governing body.

BASKETBALL

Lions two-time losers

MK Lions 82
(New 20, Williams 19, Griffin 17)
Cheshire Jets 85
(Hamilton 22, Obazuaye 19, Myers 18)

Guildford Heat 95
(Martin 24, Dux 17, Aaron 15)
MK Lions 79
(New 21, Windless 14, Jamison/Griffin 12)

A TOUGH weekend for MK Lions saw them lose two on the trot and slip to seventh place in the league.

It was hard luck for Lions as they had kept up right to the final buzzer against Cheshire Jets but ran out of steam against Guildford Heat.

The Lions had taken an early advantage against the Jets, as two triples from Kevin Griffin took the score to 14-9 five minutes in.

However, Shawn Myers and Jayson Obazuaye sparked a 9-0 response for the Jets as the Lions relied on Shawn Jamison to keep them close with two late scores as the first quarter ended 18-22.

Yorick Williams, who has proved to be a fantastic signing for Lions, came out with all guns blazing in the second and made four three-pointers in the first four minutes to give the Lions a 39-33 lead.

The Jets edge further ahead in the third quarter and led by 58-66 on a Hamilton three-pointer. Once again Jamison added four more points onto the board to take them to 64-68 down going into the final stanza.

It remained a tight game as both sides exchanged scores in the opening five minutes before a Myers' triple inspired the Jets to pull away to 79-58.

The Lions had one last stab at the game with Griffin hitting a three and with three seconds left Terrell Brown had a chance to tie the match, only for his effort to come back off the hoop.

Shawn Jamison

It was a different story on Sunday as Guildford started strongly and an 11-4 run towards the end of the opening period took the score out to 15-10.

The Lions came back and took the lead at 19-20, however Guildford replied quickly and regained their advantage by half-time.

After getting to within a point of Guildford in the third quarter the Lions fell apart as their hosts broke away with a 24-6 burst.

The Lions kept fighting with triples from Griffin and Liam Cort either side of Guildford scores in the final quarter but their fate was sealed.

■ On Sunday the Lions travel to Worcester Wolves for their 7pm tip-off, before hosting Plymouth Raiders on Sunday. Tip-off is at 4pm.

RUGBY

Bletchley up

BLETCHLEY moved off the foot of the South West Two East Division as they beat Marlow 25-10.

Winger Mark Nobes set the game alight when he weaved through the Marlow defence to cross the line after a 25 metre run, and Phil Harman converted to put them 7-0 up.

But Marlow's response was instant with a drop goal following a line-out.

Chris Goodman and Tim Stobbs scored either side of a Marlow converted try to take the scores to 17-10 at half-time.

Late on Harman slotted a penalty before grabbing a try of his own.

ONE point was the difference as MK lost 17-16 to Buckingham.

It was MK's poor discipline that cost them with two men being shown yellows just as they had built a good lead.

Phil Powell was the only try scorer of the first half as MK went in with a 16-3 lead.

But a resilient Buckingham side fought back, bagging two converted tries to push them ahead at the final whistle.

MK are now in seventh place in the Southern Counties North.

A SIXTH successive victory keeps Olney Town at the top of the Southern Counties North.

They ran in seven tries against Grove, with Rhys Peakman claiming three of them, to beat Grove 41-12.

Tempers flared in the second half with Peakman receiving a yellow which allowed Grove to post some points before they also went down to 14 men.

Hockey club hit third

MK Men's Hockey Club are up to third place in the Middlesex, Berks, Bucks and Oxon League after beating Slough 3-1, it was their third win of the season.

They opened the scoring after 20 minutes with a well taken goal by midfielder Toby King before the MK defence had their work cut-out trying to keep a former Pakistan international forward at bay.

As the play opened up MK doubled their lead when captain Russell Brazier picked up an incisive pass from Ali McColl and slotted calmly passed the Slough keeper.

Slough then struck back with a short corner after a period of intense pressure. With the game in the balance, MK went for broke and only a number of fine saved by the keeper kept the scores level.

But, with five minutes remaining, debutant youngster Stuart Riches finished off a flowing move to seal the deserved victory.

Lightning's dream start is down to new bench coach

MK Lightning are flying high in the English Premier League and it could all be down to their latest signing Phil Wooderson.

For the first time Lightning have drafted in a bench coach to help ease the pressure on player-coach Nick Poole and since his arrival MK have reached the top of the table and they are also on the verge of capturing a place in the semi-finals of the EPL.

"Each year the league gets better and better, and this year to ease the burden a little bit we've brought Phil Wooderson in," Poole said.

"He's in charge of the lines we run and controls the flow of the game. It helps me concentrate on what I'm doing while I'm playing and in between periods we can sit down and discuss any changes that need to be made."

Lightning have had a dream start to their season with only one defeat in all eleven games and their unbeaten run stretched to seven when they beat Bracknell Bees in the league and Chelmsford Chieftains in the cup at the weekend.

In a dramatic game at Planet Ice Lightning got one over the reigning league champions, Bracknell, with the winning goal coming in overtime.

The Bees opened the scoring early in the second period through Michal Kanka but Lightning always looked dangerous and a double from Adam Randmall saw them reverse the score within ten minutes.

Sam Oakford hit one back for the Bees at the end of the second to set up a tense final period.

And with neither side prepared to give anything away in a close twenty minutes, it went to a thrilling climax with Toni Alasaarela bagging the final goal two minutes into overtime.

The late goal sparked wild celebrations from the players, Poole said: "We were thrilled to win the game in the final moments, it is always a great feeling but it meant a lot because Bracknell are one of the toughest sides out there. We put on an entertaining game and the crowd seemed to enjoy it."

Lightning are hoping to make amends for their disappointing season last year where they failed to win silverware for the first time in five years, and they need just three points in three games to reach the semi-finals of the EPL.

Poole's goal and a penalty shot from Alasaarela helped Lightning beat Chelmsford 2-1 and move four points clear at the top of their group.

And what does Poole put his seasons good start to?

"All the players gelling, there's a good atmosphere around the place which breeds more success. Everyone is playing well and enjoying what they are doing."

■ LIGHTNING host Chelmsford in the cup on Saturday, face-off is at 7pm and travel to Romford on Sunday for their league match, face-off is at 5.15pm.
